The Conductors

Larry Rachleff is Music Director and Conductor of Orchestras at The Oberlin College Conservatory of Music. He also serves as Associate Professor of Music, Coordinator of the Contemporary Ensemble, and teaches courses in advanced conducting and repertoire. Under his direction these ensembles have received critical acclaim, most recently by the New York Times for their "passionate, polished, sparkling" performances. The Contemporary Ensemble has also begun an ongoing recording project with Opus One Records. This past summer he conducted throughout the United States and Soviet Union with the American Soviet Youth Orchestra, an ensemble co-sponsored by the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and The American Field Services. This unique ensemble was comprised of the most gifted university/conservatory students from the USSR and the United States.

Previous to this appointment, Mr. Rachleff was Professor of Conducting at the University of Michigan where he conducted The University Concert Band, Chamber Winds, Philharmonica, Symphony Band, Wind Ensemble, and Contemporary Ensemble. There he also taught graduate courses in repertoire and conducting. His ensembles at Michigan also received acclaim for performances at national and regional conventions of the MENC and CBDNA. Mr. Rachleff also served for two years as Director of Ensembles at the University of Connecticut, where he conducted the Wind Ensemble, Symphony Band, Opera Workshop, and headed the graduate instrumental conducting program. His ensembles from both the University of Michigan and the University of Connecticut have toured extensively here and in Europe, performing in major concert halls. While at Connecticut, he created an instrumental conductor's workshop where teachers, students, and conductors came together to share musical ideas. Also active in the area of commissioning and premiering new works, 20th-Century composers Luciano Berio, Leslie Bassett, Warren Benson, Karel Husa, Ross Lee Finney, Morton Subotnik, George Crumb, Richard Wenick, Christopher Rouse, and others have collaborated with Mr. Rachleff in special projects. Professor Rachleff's college training career began at The University of Texas-Arlington, where he was twice nominated as the AMOCO Teacher of the Year in the Department of Music. Mr. Rachleff has conducted all-state bands, orchestras and festivals throughout the country, Italy, Switzerland, Canada and England.

Myron D. Welch, Professor of Music and Director of Bands at the University of Iowa, conducts the Symphony Band and Chamber Wind Ensemble and teaches courses in instrumental methods and conducting. Besides being responsible for all band activities at Iowa, he also coordinates the Iowa Honor Band, Iowa Band Directors Conference, and All-State Music Camp.

Prior to coming to Iowa, Dr. Welch was Director of Bands and Coordinator of Music Education at Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio, for seven years. He was also band and orchestra director at Okemos High School, Okemos, Michigan, where he developed superior ensembles in both mediums. A native of Michigan, he received the Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from Michigan State University, with majors in clarinet and bassoon. He was selected as the first candidate for the University of Illinois Band Conductor Internship Program and studied conducting with Dr. Harry Begian. As a University Fellow, he received his doctorate in music education from the University of Illinois in August, 1973. Dr. Welch is a reviewer of new music for The Instrumentalist and a frequent guest conductor, adjudicator and clinician.

Dr. Welch is a member of the American Bandmasters Association, College Band Directors National Association (President, North Central Division), National Band Association, Iowa Bandmasters Association, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia (faculty advisor), and Music Educators National Conference
